In 2011, Barbara Seagram, Patti Lee, and a group of 50, docked in Phnom Penh. We were armed with clothing, pens, notebooks, rulers, sharpeners, toys, pencils, stickers, and other school supplies. We had heard about an Ontario volunteer, who had dedicated the last few years to working in Cambodia for several months per year. Working alongside her was a fabulous lady, Australian Pauline Johns. Pauline has lived in Cambodia for up to 6 months per year and helped to shape the Cambodian organization 'Banyan Tree Organization', which manages all of our projects in Cambodia. Pauline, Barbara, & Patti volunteer all of their time and pay for all of their travel and living expenses.

In 2011, our group and other friends from the Toronto area donated 40 bicycles to a school outside of Phnom Penh. We went there in a small tuk-tuk along the dusty roads through Phnom Penh and out into the countryside to find that the school was a one-room shack with a cement floor and no desks or chairs. The bikes were given to children, mainly children of landmine victims. It was all very uplifting but Patti and Barbara looked at each other and wondered how long this shack would remain standing.

We inquired how much it would cost to build a permanent school and found that it would cost $24,000.00. We returned to Toronto determined to build a school. We raised $40,000.00 that year, so we also furnished two other schools and built a library at one of the schools. We now have four schools, 525 students, and sixteen teachers and librarians. We remain committed to sustaining all four of our schools at a cost of $72,000 CAD per year. This pays for the salaries of the teachers and librarians, all of the supplies for the teachers and students, lease payments, electricity, maintenance etc. You can see that money goes a long way in this country.

Over the years, many outreach programs have been undertaken to help these landmine-affected families to become self-sufficient: a bike repair business, sewing lessons with a sewing machine, crafts, and a technology centre. We also support a nearby weaving centre, by purchasing their scarves and re-selling them here. This ensures jobs for those women.

There are many who do not have a safe, private toilet. The absence of a safe, private toilet leads to serious health issues, as well as sexual abuse of women and girls. Our schools all have toilets, but many of the government schools do not. We are building toilets and hand washing stations for the government schools, thus ensuring that the girls can attend school even during their menstrual period. Without toilets at the schools, the girls would miss 4-5 days per month. After a number of months, they fall so far behind in their studies that they quit school altogether.

Our focus is to ensure that our students and other villagers have good hygiene and sanitation practices. This has included installing toilets, wells, handwashing stations, teaching hygiene and distributing Days for Girls kits.

Current and Planned Projects:

- We were sponsoring 2 students at university (tuition and books), who have now graduated. Another will graduate this year. And 2 new scholarship students have started. Besides tuition and books, we are also buying them each a computer. (A wonderful donor from France is paying for one of our new scholarship students.) We are also financially assisting our Director to get his Masters' Degree.
- We have now installed 60 toilets for 60 families in the villages near our schools. FIVE more toilets will be installed over the next year for five other families.
- We have installed toilets, wells, & handwashing stations at all of our schools, and we are now installing toilets and handwashing stations at a number of nearby government schools. To date, we have assisted 32 schools, by digging 13 wells and by building 23 banks of toilets, 19 handwashing stations, and 2 water towers. 5 more schools will receive toilets etc. this year.
- We have taught good hygiene and sanitation practices to all of the young girls in our schools and have distributed Days for Girls kits to each of them. We are extending this initiative to government schools near our schools. This ensures that the young girls can stay in school, every day of the month. To date, we have distributed over 2000 Days for Girls kits.
- We have assisted 26 Health Centres to get clean water by digging wells and building water towers for them. And we built a toilet for another Health Centre.
- Our goal is to raise the health and education of the children that attend our schools and to ensure a healthy environment for them and their families.

Patti and Barbara are excited and optimistic about all of these projects and the fundraisers that we do every year. If you are unable to attend one of our fundraisers, but still wish to make a donation, we would be so grateful. Barbara and Patti are an Agency of a charity in Canada; as well, they have formed an alliance with a charity in the USA. As a result, all Canadian and USA donors can receive tax receipts, valid for their own country.
